WIFE THROWS ACID

Miss Elsa Granger, star of the "Pepper Box Revue," was probably disgraced for life at San Francisco when Mrs. Mabel Mayer lured her into the ladies' rest room of a hotel and threw a vial of acid in her face. Mrs. Mayer is the wife of Lee Mayer, head of a motion picture production company of Los Angeles. Miss Granger has been employed by Mr. Mayer and the act was caused by unwarranted jealousy, according to Miss Granger. The illustration shows the two women, Miss Granger below.

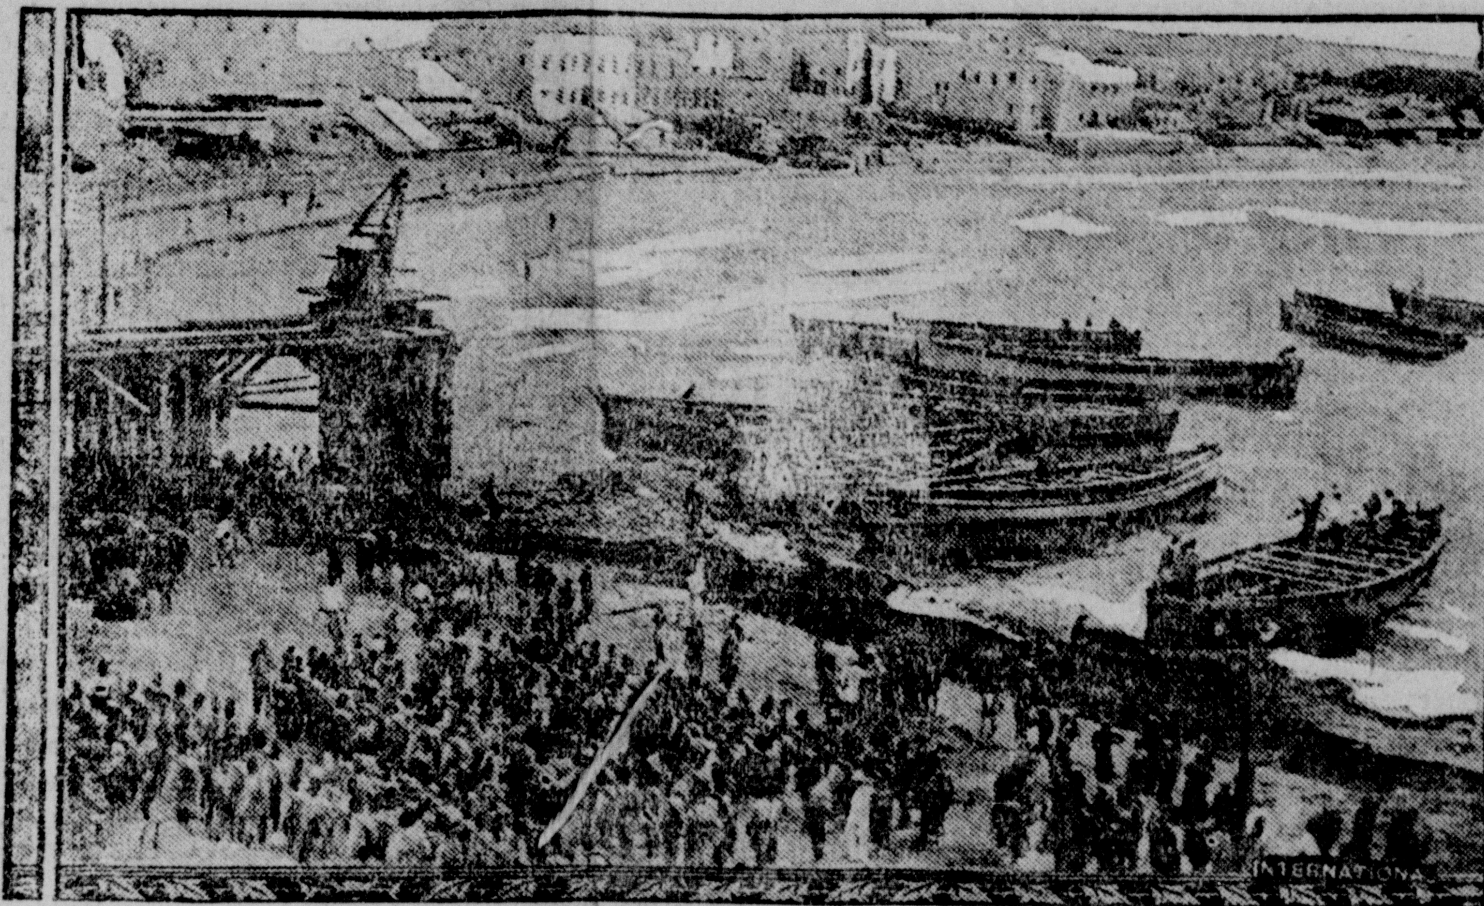

DEATH OF BABY.

Paul, the three day old son of Harry and Bessie Arledge Bush, died Wednesday evening at 9:30 o'clock at the home of his parents on York street. The child was born Sunday, February 7, 1926. A twin sister, Pauline, and his parents survive. The remains were interred in Forest cemetery today.

SEIZED CARLOAD OF ALCOHOL.

Cleveland—Federal agents seized a carload of alcohol labelled "vinegar" as it rolled into the Erie railroad yards here today. The cargo consisting of 40 drums of the liquor was consigned to a "fake" address. Fumes caused by a leak in one of the drums caused railroad detectives to investigate.

Landing of Italian Troops to Check Somali Trouble

Above is a general view on the shore at Mogadiscio, following the Italian occupation of North Somalia. Somalia is an Italian protectorate on the east coast of Africa. It is largely in the hands of native chiefs. An uprising there necessitated the Italian government's sending troops to restore quiet.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From the Wires by Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Columbus—Adoption of the pre-primary convention method of selecting candidates, insofar as the Republican party is concerned, is virtually assured, Republican State Chairman Fred W. Warner declared today after an executive session of the state central committee.

Altho the issue was to have been approved or rejected at the committee meeting late Wednesday, Warner said no action was taken because several members of the committee were absent. The committee, however, did adopt measures to expedite payment of the last gubernatorial campaign debt, aggregating $69,000.

Columbus—Informed of reports that state dry agents were in Lorain preparing for a dry crusade, State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald insisted that the agents were acting under his orders.

"If any of my agents are in Lorain they are there without authority," McDonald insisted, denying receipt of letters of telegrams from the mayor and police chief of Lorain, asking that state agents be sent to that city.

Barberton—Clutching a meat cleaver in one hand John Vleck Sr., 55, was found shot to death in his store here today.

The body was found by two negro boys. A bullet had pierced Vleck's heart. A careful examination of the store failed to reveal anything missing leading police to discard the theory that Vleck was slain by bandits.

Police believe Vleck was shot by an enemy, perhaps while he menaced his assailant with the cleaver.

Columbus—Hearings before the public utilities commission in the statewide investigation of proposed increased rates of the Ohio Bell Telephone company stood adjourned today until February 25, to allow counsel for the state to examine company data.

Resumption of the hearings had been scheduled for today but W. S. McConaughy, special counsel for the state, told the commission he would prefer to postpone further cross examination to check data submitted by the company.

GREWSOME FIND TWO DEAD MEN FOUND IN AUTO

Strangled, Near Youngstown With Ropes Around Their Necks.

Youngstown, Feb. 11 (UP).—The bodies of two unidentified men, bound together with ropes and bearing marks of a brutal beating, were found in an automobile on the Hubbard road near Cedar Corners, a suburb today.

After an examination authorities expressed the belief that both had been hanged, cut down, placed in the automobile and taken to the spot where the machine was found.

Both bodies bore cuts and bruises, indicating they had been beaten with a heavy club. Marks, as the each had been strangled to death with a rope, were found on the necks.

The men were between 25 and 30 years of age. Both were well dressed.

Mrs. John Anderson who lives a short distance from where the machine was abandoned told authorities she saw the car drive up and stop between 8 and 9 o'clock last night.

Two men alighted, she said. They boarded a second car which had been following and first and drove toward Youngstown.

The machine in which the bodies were left was a sedan. A lap robe was pulled over the bodies, giving the sedan the appearance of being empty.

One of the men is believed to be Ralph Russo, brother of Dominic Russo, who formerly operated a Youngstown Restaurant. Dominic viewed the bodies and said one was that of his brother. He pointed out a belt buckle bearing the initial, "R," found on the body.

The dance given at the Memorial hall Wednesday evening by the colored folks attracted a large number of spectators. The floor was filled with a goodly number of dancers, who seemed to enjoy the terpsichorean art to the full. The new athletic, rhythmic Charleston was the exhibition number and it was artistically done. Quite a number of visitors from other cities attended the dance. The affair was in charge of Lloyd Seward and Granville Parker.

The meeting was the most sparsely attended in years and as a result of developments, Bucyrus, Findlay, Brooklyn, Akron and Sandusky will have no short ship racing this year. Findlay was the oldest member of the circuit to withdraw.

CONFECTIONER KILLS BANDIT IN COLUMBUS

Unidentified Man Slain by Victim He Had Robbed a Short Time Before.

Ira C. Hunt, 63, 545 Bradley street Columbus, shot and killed a bandit, Wednesday afternoon, who a few minutes before had robbed him.

The bandit stepped into Mr. Hunt's confectionery at 514 Park street, and demanded Mr. Hunt to "stick 'em up," and his hands shot up in a northerly direction. While they were in this position, the hold-up cleaned Mr. Hunt's pockets of all his valuables. Money amounting to $45 was taken.

After searching his victim, the bandit ordered Mr. Hunt to a back room, where he commanded him to lie on the floor and the robber then went back to the store and began rifling the money drawer. As he did so Mr. Hunt slammed shut the door between the two rooms, obtained a shotgun that was behind the partition and the battle begun. The thief left the cash register and ran back to the door with a gun in his hands and as he opened the closed door dividing him from his victim, Mr. Hunt fired. The charge took effect directly between both eyes and the bandit fell to the floor dead. The hands of the robber clutched the gun in his death throes and it was there when the coronor arrived.

The robber was a man about thirty years of age. He is five feet, eight inches tall, is well built and has black hair. He was dressed in a blue cheviot suit, wore a light overcoat and a light hat, black oxfords and overshoes were on his feet. There were no marks on his clothing to identify him. On his left forearm is a tattooed rose and beneath was evidently the man's name, but this had been obliterated as a tattoo mark had blotted it out.

LADIES' SOCIETY.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' society of Trinity Lutheran congregation, held in the social rooms of the church on Wednesday afternoon, February 10, was attended by 65 members. The missionary paper, "Nava Dania, the first Lutheran Settlement in America" was read by Mrs. Denny Pickens, discussion of same by Mrs. W. E. Crist. Mrs. H. H. Groce and Mrs. G. J. Troutman were elected delegates to the Woman's Missionary conference to be held in Columbus Thursday. During the social hour the members were entertained with vocal solos by Mrs. J. P. Moffitt and Mrs. George Himrod. A delicious lunch was served by the February committee.

More than sixty per cent of all commodities distributed today are sold on the monthly payment plan. From this figure it is evident that business has geared itself to the income basis of the consumer. The carrying charge on this vast turnover is reasonable, and yields a fair average return. But sacrificed payments and repossessed radios, phonographs, furniture, pianos and autos tell the grim story of contracts drawn entirely in favor of the seller.
The safe, sure way to buy an article on a monthly payment basis is to borrow the money under the popular City Loan Plan where the contract is in the borrower's favor, and deal for cash. We know how to take care of cases of adversity too, which is not a bad thing to keep in mind when you are making promises about the future.

SNOWBOUND (1926)

Let poets rave about the delights of being snowbound in New England. The thousands of people who found their transportation cut off, last evening, by a driving snowstorm too severe for locomotives and electricities to overcome, were not in a mood to write poetry. Most of them did, however, maintain a high degree of good nature under what were indeed annoying and vexatious circumstances. Individuals who ordinarily fret over the most trifling inconveniences are apt to "grin and bear it" when something really serious comes along—like having to spend the night in a hotel corridor or to curl up and sleep on an office desk, as many were obliged to do when yesterday's storm cut them off from their homes.

The storm had one redeeming feature—it was not cold. Had the same quantity of snow fallen, with the same sweep of wind, at a temperature 10 to 20 degrees lower, the blizzard would have caused vastly more intense suffering and would have left a trail of tragedy.

Strenuous efforts were made and are still being made, by officials and laborers, to open every avenue of traffic. Those efforts deserve to be recognized and appreciated by everyone.

A Boston newspaper contained the above editorial regarding "Snowbound 1926" regarding the big snow storm which that city witnessed on Thursday of last week. This storm is recorded to be the most severe in the records of that city for the past 35 years. The wind reached a velocity of 37 miles an hour with the temperature ranging from 32 to 26 degrees above zero. At Winchester, a suburb of Boston, which is only about ten miles from the city, the snow was 18 inches deep on the level while the drifts were from three to four feet deep. All traffic was tied up, no locomotive, electric or elevated trains running out of the city. A large percentage of the business and professional men and women in Boston live in the suburbs and as a consequence every hotel in the city was taxed to the utmost. Many spending the night in their offices. The State House, jail and all public buildings were thrown open to the people and all were crowded.

Soul Can Be Measured

Out in the forest of Coze, in France, a distinguished mathematician worked in a lonely laboratory with delicate instruments measuring, year after year, and calculating to the millionth part of a centimeter. The other day he appeared at the Sorbonne and made an announcement that caused as tremendous a sensation in France as if a bomb had been exploded. For Prof. Charles Henry declared that the human soul—that mysterious thing that is not a thing, which man has accepted only through faith—now can be measured. It is the first time, says Popular Science Monthly, that science ever has admitted tangible proof of the soul's existence.

Religion is right, declared Professor Henry. We never completely die. There is a certain electrical radiation or "biological vibration" that goes on and on. Set free by death, it seeks another envelope or body, because only by doing so can it establish its equilibrium.
Scientists today have ways of measuring the radiation of all substances. Yet after calculating the radiation in a body due to heat, that due to electromagnetic elements and that due to the attraction of the earth, they find there is still some unknown force that is none of these. It is this elusive force that Professor Henry identifies as the soul.

DEAL IN FUTURES

Young Wilkins, who was of very limited means, presented the minister, after the wedding ceremony, with a couple of frayed bank notes and some loose change, saying: "I'm sorry, parson, but this is all I've got."
Then, observing the faint look of disappointment which the poor parson was unable to restrain, he added hastily: "But, if we have any children, we will send them to your Sunday school."—Country Gentleman.

Writer's Remedy for That Jealous Feeling

Wives who are jealous of other women appear in moving pictures and stories on the first page, but jealousy of this kind doesn't trouble the average wife. There are three reasons why it doesn't trouble her: First, because her vanity tells her that she is attractive to all men and especially attractive to her husband and need not fear competition; second, because she has an unflattering opinion of her sex and doesn't believe that any member of it is qualified to win a man as intelligent as her husband; third, because familiarity has taught her that her husband is very ordinary and she smiles at the thought of his being a heart-smasher.

But if she is not jealous of other women she is jealous of his work, a writer in the Baltimore Sun comments. His work too frequently occupies his mind when she wishes to occupy it. She is made to feel that she is a secondary consideration, even though the work is done for her, and her vanity is hurt. She resents the fact of his work and feels neglected.

It is an unhappy situation, but it is easily remedied. She may find a work of her own, or at least a hobby. Once she has it, she will no longer depend upon her husband for entertainment. She will live much within herself and think her secret thoughts and answer his questions in an absent-minded way and be quite self-sufficient.

The remedy has disadvantages, however. You can't rob Peter to pay Paul without offending Peter.

Her husband, made to feel that he is no longer essential to her happiness, will feel cheated and abused. He will find a thousand reasons to condemn her new activity, but the whole cause of his displeasure is the fact that his vanity is hurt. He is jealous because he now is forced to play the second fiddle lately discarded by his wife.

What to do? Well, a collection of children makes an excellent hobby. A wife with five children doesn't worry about her husband's devotion to his work. She has an interest to occupy all of her waking thoughts. And if they cause her to give less time and attention to her husband, he is not made jealous, for the children are his and to care for them is to serve him.
Children are an expensive hobby, but any expense is justified if it affords a common interest and takes away the temptation to feel neglected and abused.

KEEPING WELL
AVOIDING HEART DISEASE
DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

THE heart is the most important organ in the human body. Even among savage and primitive people it has always been recognized as the center and mainspring of life. Heart disease is perhaps more feared than any other human ailment, and justly so, since it is one of the most common.

There are today at least two million people in the United States suffering from some sort of heart affection. This means an average of one out of every fifty-five persons—men, women and children—in the country.

The popular idea of heart disease is that it generally affects persons in middle or later life; that it strikes without warning, and that it is impossible for one to avoid its dangers.

These ideas are all wrong. In probably one-third of all forms of heart disease the injury occurs in childhood, about fifteen out of every thousand school children having some definite heart disorder. Twice as many, or thirty out of every thousand persons between the ages of twenty and fifty, are more or less disabled by some form of heart affection. One-tenth of all the hospital beds in the country are occupied by patients with heart disease. The United States census for 1922 showed that one-fifth of all deaths of persons over forty years old were due to heart conditions.

What are the causes for this enormous number of diseased hearts? The answer can be given in a single word: Infection.

The heart is like any other organ in the body. So long as it is protected from poisons, either from inside or outside the body, it will go on working day and night, with absolute regularity, for many years. But infections or poisons carried from other parts of the body by the blood, coming in contact with the delicate lining of the heart, cause irritation, then inflammation, finally ulceration in the form of little open sores on the heart walls or valves, which cause a break in the smooth lining membrane. When these sores heal, the scars contract, pull the valves out of position and interfere with their work.

But what causes the infection? Sixty per cent of all cases are caused by rheumatism; 20 per cent by syphilis; and 15 per cent by local infection, such as diseased tonsils, abscesses, sinus infection in the nose, or general infections, such as scarlet fever.

Do you want to avoid heart disease? Then avoid all possible infections, and if you have bad tonsils, abscessed teeth, sinus infection, chronic appendicitis or an infected gall bladder, have the local infection taken care of at once. Don't wait. Tomorrow may be too late.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP.)—President Coolidge today authorized a denial of reports that he had in any way directed Secretary of War Davis to take steps toward investigation of army air service propaganda. The president believes that such action is purely a war department matter.

President Coolidge's approval of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's plan to establish separate bureaus of prohibition and customs, removing prohibition from the internal revenue bureau, was announced at the White House today. Mellon has conferred several times with Mr. Coolidge on his plan, which has just been introduced in Congress and the president approves all points of the proposal, it was said.

President Coolidge today sent to the Senate the following nominations: To be U. S. Marshals: Chester M. Leedom, district of South Dakota; John C. Orrick, district of Montana.

The Elliott Public Building bill, authorizing appropriation of $150,000,000 will be taken up by the House next Monday, the Republican steering committee decided today. The measure will be called up under suspension of rules which prevents the offering of the amendments. A two-thirds vote is necessary under this procedure for passage.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

"A very difficult question," the President calls the traffic casualties of the time. The figures that he cites—24,000 persons killed in a year upon the streets and highways of the country, and probably more than 500,000 injured. This means that over a period of the same length as our participation in the world war Americans are losing three-fourths as many lives on streets and roads as they lost to German bullets, and running up in addition a non-fatal casualty list thrice as great as they did abroad.

"The president has asked all the governors to appoint delegates to a national safety convention to assemble in March. While we know of no formula to meet the situation he has outlined the conference may write history by focusing public attention on the national aspects of a problem made up of a multitude of incidents at street corners and cross roads. Many communities are at work seeking and applying remedies.

The figures set forth in this article certainly ought to be a very convincing argument for

Danes Colonize Greenland
Two colonies of Danish farmers have gone to Greenland to make an effort to engage in farming on a profitable basis. The colonies will be at Lindenow and at Scoresby sound. Danish sovereignty has been recognized in Greenland by all powers but Norway, and last year Denmark and Norway made an agreement settling Norway's claim by giving it certain commercial rights for a period of 20 years. The agreement ended a controversy lasting for centuries that started because Norway claimed original explorations in Greenland.

x HARTMAN THEATER. x
x x x x x x x x

The joy of an engagement of mystery will soon be ours, for Thurston, the master magician, will be the attraction at the Hartman theater, Columbus, for the week commencing Monday, February 15, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Many a tired business man or a busy mother will be routed out of their easy chairs and sent wandering off to the theater surrounded by a brood of youngsters determined to bring home either a pigeon or a rabbit as a present from Thurston, who is conceded to be the greatest exponent of the art of necromancy and the most plausible and delightful trickster of the entertainment world today.

Thurston has stood alone at the head of his chosen profession for numerous years and is now making his twentieth annual tour with his wonder show of the universe for such it is; because of the fact that the ideas for his wondrous illusions and deceptions are gathered from the remote corners of the world. These ideas have been brought to a state of perfection by the famous magician and will soon be offered for your delectation.

Thurston's new program is the most pretentious of any previously offered and contains thrills, laughter and mystery and will be presented by the largest company ever assembled to support a master magician and numbers thirty-five individuals, many of whom are pretty girls, and with gorgeous scenic array of extravagance and beauty, paraphernalia, animals, etc. that require three sixty-foot baggage cars greatly enhance the many and varied mysteries included in his program, as: "The Great East Indian Rope Trick," "Broadcasting a Woman," "The Phantom," "The Human Cannon Ball," "The Vanishing Horse and Rider," "Crushing a Woman," "The Mystic Follies," "The Vanishing Donkey," "The Human Pin Cushion," "The Elastic Lady," "The Phantom Princess" who floats out over the stage into the orchestra, then vanishing like a cloud in thin air, and one hundred other mysteries.

FOLLOW THE CROWD

Some firms advertise by mailing circulars. Pickaway County has about 5,000 homes. Circulars mailed to each home costs the sender about $150.

Money spent in this manner must be added to the overhead expense and the customer pays that expense.

The Circleville Welding Co.'s policy has always been to reduce expense and give the customer the benefit of the saving. Having been in business for the past six years we need no introduction. All the leading industries of Circleville and the many surrounding towns have their work done here. Why not you. We don't do a cheap job merely to meet competition but do you a real 100 percent job at as a reasonable price as possible.

Welding and brazing is our business, nothing else. Bring your next job here and compare the difference in workmanship.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. GLORIFY THE HOME!

The American home is a source of our present progress and prosperity. When the home loses its influence, the nation is doomed.

When we fail to glorify the home, we then take the downward path.

The home should be given its due reverence.

Within its sacred precincts we find the foundation of everything that leads to worth-while achievements.

Therefore, Let Us Exalt and Sanctify the Home!

It satisfies the deep-seated yearning that comes to every human soul. It brings peace, content and happiness.

God help those who have been denied the exalted privilege of home making!

They Are to Be Pitied! And often they are the victims of misguided enthusiasts who have failed to grasp the fundamental principles of the great truths of life.

To possess something that is worth more than life itself should indeed be considered an inspiring privilege.

And where is there a mother or father who will not admit that he loves any one or all of his children more than life itself?

When an emergency arises wherein a parent can save a loved one by sacrificing his own life, a decision is quickly made in favor of his progeny.

"Glorify God in Your Bodies" is a Divine, Biblical command!

But many really religious people fail to catch the proper vision of the bodily needs. Consequently they are unfortunately minus the vitality essential in the building of family life and sometimes they become obsessed with a wrong idea of the influence of bodily strength, vitality and beauty.

They are wont at times to criticize severely those who find inspiration in the sculptured outlines of bodily beauty.

Let us hope that this sacrilegious attitude towards the body that was made in God's image will soon disappear. This disrespect cast upon the flesh and blood house in which we live is one of the principle causes of limited families and the popularization of the frail physique which often brings sterility and at times physical, moral and spiritual disaster.

Nearly All Criminals are Defective Physically. There are but few exceptions.

We hear so much at this time about the menace of the crime wave.

But back of all the evil forces that are referred to as the cause of the crime wave is the fast growing disrespect for the American home.

Marriages are Decreasing; Divorces are Increasing.

A body that is glowing with health can never house the mind of a criminal.

And not until this great outstanding cause of criminality is fully recognized and properly remedied can we expect a satisfactory decrease in criminality.

The American home can be stabilized and perpetuated only by maintaining the vitality and vigor of our people.

To Glorify the Home We Must First Give Due Reverence to Our Glorious Bodies. We must exalt and dignify them to the highest pinnacle of human thought.

Then family life will be honored above everything. Parents who fail in their family duties will then be properly stigmatized.—Bernarr McFadden.

CROCKEYJOY ADVENTURES

By BETTY BROWNE

(Copyright.)

A Crockey Halloween

RUTH wanted to see if she really could go into the front door of Crockeytown, all by herself. So she put the big red velvet-covered picture album on the library table and opened it to the enchanted picture of Crockey castle. At least, she tried to open it to the picture, but something was awry. The castle only looked like any other of those pictured in the book.

But listen! What was that? Ruth heard a faint little ghost of a tune. Or was it a tune? It sounded just as though a tea-kettle were bubbling on the fire, except that each little purring note arose as musical as the twang of a harp-string being thumbed.

Ruth closed the book and started on a search for the maker of this odd music. Then she saw her little toy cat of silver with the emerald eyes. And, if you will believe me, she surely saw him wink at her and wiggle one ear. That was enough to show Ruth who had been making the music. It was the cat—"Purz," as the name on his collar read.

Now, as you may know, the kindly old Crockeyjoy had told Ruth that, excepting himself, Purz alone could aid her in entering Crockeyland. The old fellow's words had slipped her mind. But now she remembered. She picked up Purz and carried him across the room to the table. This time, when she opened the big picture book, she saw things as they should be. In the time it takes for a cat to arch his back and stretch, Ruth had shrunk to the size of Purz.

"Come on," said Purz, for he could speak just like a man. "Hurry. We have no time to spare, if we are to see the Crockey Folks celebrate Halloween."

Purz and Ruth went down the road that led to the Castle, as fast as they could scramble. When they reached the Castle moat, Purz gave the magic pass word. The drawbridge was let down for them with a rattle of iron chains. They skipped across it, through a tall doorway with steel bands at the sides of it, then they burst forth, all out of breath, right into the main hall of the Castle.

It was night in Crockeyland, and the whole place was lighted up with many-colored jack-o'-lanterns. At the start Ruth thought that these lanterns were being carried about. They were constantly moving back and forth among the crowd. But soon she saw that no one carried them. They moved by their own efforts. They were alive.

And then there were "tick-tocks" shaped like birds which climbed up to windows of their accord and rattled and ticked and scratched away, and seemed to enjoy themselves a lot. There were pumpkin heads with shining eyes which danced and frolicked, and grinned in glee. There were bent old witches with wrinkled faces and knotted hands, who rode about on great, long broomsticks. And when Purz gave the cat rally-call, you should have seen the troops of black cats; all sizes, all ages, which came trotting up to meet him.

Purz talked to the cats a while in cat-talk. Then he sent them all away again. And here is how he explained the strange goings-on to Ruth.

"In Crockeytown on Halloween, all the toys and playthings come to life. From witches and scarecrows, to pumpkin heads, they all can live and talk and play. A long, long time ago, such things also happened in the place we call the world. But some folks began to doubt that such things ever could occur. There were fights and troubles, and stoning parties, till the spirits decided that it was best to stay always in Crockeytown, and not to visit the earth except on very rare occasions. And that is what the witch-cats told me," said Purz, as they started for home.

They hurried through the gateway and across the drawbridge. Just as they reached the far side one of the chains of the drawbridge fell with a rattle, and the end of it struck Ruth sharply on the foot.

"Oh! oh, that hurt," she cried. Then she looked about her and saw that she was already back in the library at home. In her pocket rested the toy cat. At her feet was the picture album. It had fallen from her lap and struck against her foot in its fall. Ruth was tired and sleepy, so she knew that the best thing to do was to get to bed. Before she left the room she put Purz back in his corner and kissed him good-night. "Thank you, so much," she whispered as she left him. "We'll go on other adventures together." And Purz just purred, and purred, and purred, and then winked his left eye, and was quiet.

GOOD PROGRAM RENDERED BY BROTHERHOOD

Supper Furnished by Ladies of Trinity Lutheran Church
---Delightful Meeting.

One of the very largest crowds in the history of the church partook of a picnic supper furnished by the Ladies' society and engineered by Mrs. Ed Sensenbrenner. The affair was in honor of the Junior and Senior choir Sunday School orchestra, Sunday school officers and teachers. The tables fairly groaned with the weight of the many good things from the pantries of our many good housewives, chicken, chicken and more chicken, noodles, baked beans, escalloped oysters, johnnagazette, homemade cake and ice cream.

The hall was decorated for Valentine day most artistically and each lady wore a white head band decorated with hearts.

The program for the occasion was furnished by members of the Brotherhood with Rev. G. J. Troutman, toastmaster. Whether it was the toastmaster, the speakers or the affair in general we can not say but we do know it was one of the most enthusiastic meetings for many a day.

The program was as follows:
"Music in the Church" Harry Heffner
"Hats Off to Our Sunday School Teachers" Elmer Wolf
"Compliments to the Choir" J. D. Hummel
"The Compensation of a Church Worker" John Goeller Jr.
"What's in a Name?" George Troutman
"My 23 Years in the War Department (choir)" E. C. Ebert

CONTRIBUTE TO CAMPAIGN EXCHEQUER

Money Found on Fair Manager's Desk and Returned by Governor Donahey.

Columbus, Feb. 10, (UP)—The state auditor's office is investigating alleged irregularities in connection with the sale of concessions at the last state fair, it became known today.

State Auditor Tracy launched the inquiry after State Director of Agriculture Truax submitted a voucher for $800 to repay the Gooding shows for alleged breach of contract.

Tracy is holding up the voucher, pending completion of the inquiry.

Tracy called in Attorney General Crabbe who with Deputy State Auditor Harry D. Silver obtained sworn statements from C. W. Cracraft, Cincinnati, general agent for the Greater Sheasley shows.

Cracraft was awarded a contract for operating riding devices at the fair after the Gooding contract, which was supposed to have been exclusive was awarded, Tracy claims.

Cracraft said he sent $200 to the fair grounds as a campaign contribution after he had been awarded the concession for $1200, according to Tracy. Cracraft understood the money was for campaign purposes, but no campaigns were being conducted at the time, he said.

The money was placed on the desk of G. F. Lewis, state fair manager. Tracy says Cracraft told him. Lewis sealed the money in an envelope and later turned it over to Governor Donahey.

The governor conducted an investigation, Cracraft said, and himself returned the money, telling Cracraft "that was not the proper way to make campaign contribution."

Lewis said he believed from what Cracraft told him that Truax had made some arrangements with Cracraft in Chicago for the concession.

The state fair board was scheduled to meet Thursday. The board only has advisory powers and it was expected that it will not attempt to become a party to the probe.

Tracy indicated he would conduct an investigation of every concession awarded, numbering 90.

Lewis declined to discuss the case as did Truax. Both probably will appear before Tracy and Crabbe Monday when the inquiry is scheduled for resumption.

Cracraft's statement involved State Director of Agriculture Truax who previously had awarded the concession to the Gooding shows. It was when Truax sent thru a voucher for the payment of $800 to the Gooding interests for breach of contract, that the alleged contribution was disclosed coincident with the revelation that the concession had been awarded to the Cracraft interests.

New Source Foreseen for News-Print Supply

Madison, Wis.—A source that will give a plentiful supply of news-print paper at lower cost has been found by the forest products laboratory of the University of Wisconsin.

Successful experiments conducted by the laboratory have resulted in the production of paper from eucalyptus wood grown in Sao Paulo, Brazil. A small roll run through the press of a newspaper here showed favorable printing qualities and ample strength for use in high-speed presses, experimenters said.

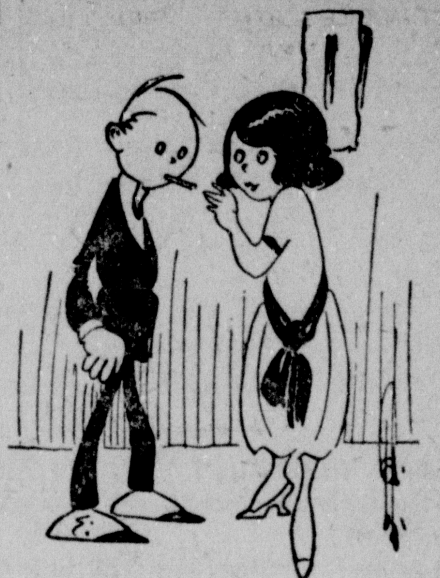

Dr. Edmundo Navarro de Andrade, who observed the experiment, said he believed that the new product would bring paper manufacture into prominence in Brazil. The paper can be produced at about half the cost of the present imported news print, the laboratory estimated.

The eucalyptus can be grown in California, New Mexico, Arizona and Florida, where the climate is such that the tree would probably reach pulp wood size in less than ten years, giving what research workers believe will be a perpetual supply of paper to fill the shortage caused by depletion of spruce.

Her Good Work Unseen

After 25 years in theatrical obscurity, Madame Lempereur has reached the top of her profession in Paris, but the public still will see nothing of her. Madame Lempereur is a theater prompter. She has been appointed to officiate at the Comedie Francaise, France's leading state theater, otherwise known as the House of Moliere. "A good prompter is as rare as an actor with talent," said Andre Antoine, manager of the Odeon, second state theater, where Madame Lempereur previously served. "Many's the time my old comrade has pulled me out of a hole. I was only free from anxiety when she was in the prompter's box."

BURBANK PRESENTS SEVEN NEW PLANTS TO THE WORLD

Noted Major Creations and Improvements Result of Year's Work by Famous Naturalist.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—With the completion of one of the busiest years in his half century of work in the laboratory of nature, Luther Burbank presented to the world as a New Year gift a beautiful group of new flowers and plants.

The plant wizard announced that during the year just closed he had perfected seven major creations and improvements. Today he sent to all parts of the world seeds which will bear these new creations.

After 23 years of experimentation Mr. Burbank has created a new camassia, a striking blue flower. While the camassia is not widely known, the new product excels all others in its beauty and ability to multiply.

From his rainbow corn Burbank has produced the rainbow teosinte, a marvelous plant that grows eight feet tall and bears from 8 to 14 ears to each stalk.

Third is a new giant cactus flowering zinnia, a truly giant plant developed from a more familiar flower.

Others are a new hybrid flower, a new species of the torch lily, which will bloom profusely in cold climates; a new and improved strain of the popular Shasta daisy, much larger and more colorful than the present Shasta; a new strain of fluffy giant asters, and the perfection of eight newly named gladioluses.

The noted naturalist begins the new year in good health, and is looking forward to one of accomplishment.

"I can say that I am satisfied with my year's work," he told visitors at his experimental gardens. "for I must be satisfied. The year is done, and it has been one of my busiest. I have worked and enjoyed every day of it. But I will go on with the new year."

Old English DancesAre Being Revived

London.—There has been a sudden country-wide revival of the old English country dances, and a great all-England folk dance festival is ushering in the new year in the grand hall of London university, in South Kensington.

The revival is bringing the morris dance and the sword dance into their own again, says a report by the English Folk Dance society, which asserts these dances are being taken up with enthusiasm by tens of thousands of young people throughout England. The society is compelled to refuse hundreds of applications from would-be learners because of its inability to secure enough ballroom space.

Women are taking up sword dancing enthusiastically, many with the purpose of teaching it to boy scouts, girl guides and members of similar organizations.

Scottish reels are also regaining favor, mainly because of the partiality of the duchess of York for them, although the duchess herself will not be seen in the ballroom for the next few months because of the approach of an interesting family event.

Dig Up Skeleton 2,000Years Old in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz.—The skeleton of a man, believed to have been a member of the race said by some archeologists to have inhabited this section of Arizona 2,000 years ago, was unearthed near the eastern city limits by a party of excavators working under the direction of the American Museum of Natural History.

Measurements of the skeleton indicate the man was about 5 feet 8 inches tall. Both Erik Smith, in charge of the excavating work, and Dr. O. A. Turney, Phoenix archeologist, said the man undoubtedly was a member of the race that was known as the "canal builders," who are believed to have constructed the first irrigation system in the Salt river valley. Traces of these canal systems still remain.

Belief was expressed that there were two rooms beneath the chamber in which the skeleton was found. Doctor Turney explained that it was the custom of this race to lay their dead in the floor of a room, cover it with earth, build a new floor and continue to live in the same dwelling.

Gold-Filled Elephant Tusk Found in Mining Claim

Seattle, Wash.—An authentic fossil tusk of the woolly elephant of the glacial or postglacial period, with gold fillings like a modern tooth, has been presented to the museum of the University of Washington by Edward Squires, who discovered it on a mining claim on Dominion creek, 40 miles from Dawson, Yukon territory.

The tusk is ten feet long and weighs 250 pounds. The theory of Nathan Kresge, museum caretaker and former Alaskan, is that the relic was there when tons of earth with pay streak settled down, so that gold nuggets were forced into the cracks of the tusk, giving the effect of modern gold tooth fillings.

Louisville, Ky.—The burglar alarm on Mrs. Jane Lindenburger's shop works and she is satisfied she is getting her money's worth. A squad of policemen, arriving in answer to an alarm from Mrs. Lindenburger's shop, were told she "wanted to see if she was getting service."

Market for Jewels

Prior to the World war Russia, Germany and India outdistanced all other countries in the acquisition of gems, but in the last few years the United States has become the most bejeweled country in the world. That with the economic slump following the war, revolutions, high taxes and expensive food and other necessities, the wealthiest people abroad have been obliged to sell their most prized possessions. Most of these jewels have come to America, for taxation places precious stones beyond the reach of British middle-class families.

INDIANS IN A. E. F.

From Records It Has Been Found 12,000 Red Men Were In Expeditionary Force.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—After carefully checking the records, it has been ascertained that there were 12,000 American Indians in the American Expeditionary Forces during the World War. They made excellent soldiers and when they returned, they immediately went back to their reservations.

Dutch Wealth in Colonies

Although Holland, living above her means, is unable to afford a big navy, yet the defense of her colonies is a question of supreme gravity. The importance to Holland of its overseas possessions was emphasized recently in a speech by Professor Treub, former finance minister and chairman of the Employers' council of the Dutch East Indies. In the Dutch archipelago, whose area is 5 times greater than that of the mother country, is a population of 50,000,000. There is invested there $1,200,000,000, three-quarters of which is Dutch and one-quarter foreign capital, on which the annual yield is about $180,000,000. About $100,000,000 is paid in dividends and royalties. Twenty per cent of these dividends accrues to the Dutch treasury. Were Holland to lose East India her industrial and commercial life would be mortally hit.

MOVIE STARS TWICE MARRIED

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 9.—(UP.)—Alma Rubens and Ricardo Cortez were much married today.

The stars motored to Riverside and were re-wed, the second ceremony within ten days.

Through a technical mixup Cortez and Miss Rubens were married a week before her divorce from Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman had been effective.

The same justice who "married" the film couple on January 30, re-enacted the nuptials.

Wanted Full Praise

Here is a story that is going the rounds in New York city: The chef to M. Ignace Paderewski receives almost as much publicity en tour as does the pianist; partly because he is a good chef, and partly because he insists that the world be made aware of his genius. To this his master assents. Anything for peace and shelter from the run of table food of the railroad diner. More, M. Paderewski makes a point of complimenting his chef frequently. "Tell the chef," he said, lately, upon conclusion of a meal, "that the fish was marvelous, the roast superb, and the ice cream unsurpassable." The waiter relayed the message and returned, duly, with the answer. "The chef says," he told M. Paderewski, "that the soup was excellent, too."

ESKIMO AND INDIAN GIVE RADIO FANTASTIC THRILLS

SIMEON OLIVER, an Eskimo from Unalakleet, Alaska, an accomplished pianist, and Kitus Tecumseh, noted Indian tenor, are exclusive artists over WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation station, Chicago. These two artists play and sing opera, popular music and the music typical of the Eskimo and Indian tribes. The Eskimo has played the piano since he was four years old. He taught himself, but while broadcasting here he has been studying with a noted musician. He received his education in the government school in Alaska. Tecumseh has a remarkable high tenor voice. His first name, Kitus, means "Coyote" and even when he was with the cowboys on cattle roundups he gave evidence of being a singer. It was a natural voice then, but he has, through practice, become a polished singer. He has appeared at the Chicago World's Fair, as well as on radio programs in the East with John Hartman.

WLS NEW SUPERPOWER STATION NOW ON THE AIR

NO PHASE of science which radio wizards have been able to discover has been left untouched in building the new super-power station for WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation station, Chicago, near Crete, Ill., on the Dixie Highway. The transmitter is 5,000-watt capacity, with tubes of 10,000-watt units. A specially designed frequency amplifier assures the holding of the same wave length under all conditions and the use of the capacity reduces the possibility of interference with other stations, according to Curtis D. Peck, engineer in charge. The station is located on a two-and-one-half-acre plot. The site is landscaped and beautified with hedges and creeping bent grass lawns. Fifteen miles of ground wire were plowed in rows under the lawn as a farmer plants his potatoes. The building contains an extra large operating room, office, reception room for visitors, generator and battery rooms and switch closets. The most up-to-date construction has been employed throughout. An elaborate hot-water system has been installed to prevent freezing of the water used in cooling tubes. The towers are 200 feet high and 40 feet at the base. The wave length remains the same—345 meters. The inaugural program was broadcast October 31. A new "radio art" studio in the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, was opened to the radio public at the same time.

USES PITCHFORK AS FIDDLE FOR RADIO FARM CONCERTS

ARLEN SIME of Readstown, Wis., gets real music out of a pitchfork. This he demonstrates to the radio audiences over WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. Mr. Sime achieved a reputation playing his "Pitchfork Violin" for country dances, farmers' meetings and community assemblies in Wisconsin, so he was induced to come to Chicago and give concerts to the WLS farm listeners with this unique musical instrument, which he made himself from an ordinary three-pronged fork. Around the middle of the handle he built a box 10 by 13 inches. The back is made of birch and the top and sides of fir. In the end of the fork handle is a slot two inches deep and fastened at the outside of the slot is a tuning key. He uses a violin bridge and the one string of the instrument is a steel "B" of a guitar. It is played with a regular violin bow. The pitchfork produces different tones by sliding a piece of wood up and down the string. The steel tines of the pitchfork give a great deal of tone quality and volume.

IN MEMORIAM

Editor Union Herald—Mrs. Frances C. Pontius was born in Washington township, Pickaway county, Ohio, on the 23rd day of February, 1851, and departed this life on Thursday evening February 4th, at six o'clock at her home in Circleville, at the age of 75 years, 11 months and 12 days.

She was a daughter of David and Mary Morris Helvering, who have passed to the great beyond. She was united in holy matrimony to Louis H. Pontius on the 23rd day of September, 1869, and who died March 12, 1917. To this union four children were born, one of whom died in infancy.

The surviving children are: Florence, wife of R. E. Betz, of Washington township; Clifford D. Pontius and Turney L. Pontius, of Pickaway township. She also leaves seven grandchildren: Ralph, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Betz; Helen and Eleanor, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Pontius, and Harold Wilbur, Irene and Marvene, children of Mr. and Mrs. Turney Pontius.

She also leaves one sister, Mrs. T. R. Bell, of Columbiana, Ohio, and two brothers, Elmer and Charles Helvering, of Washington township, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss which can never be restored in this world; but their loss is her eternal gain.

She bore her long suffering with patience. Mrs. Pontius was a loving mother, sister and a friend to all who knew her. It can be said that she was always ready to assist anyone in need and she possessed noble traits of character. She will be missed by her children and friends and her place in the home will be forever vacant.

She was a member of the Lutheran church of this city.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank all our friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses during the illness and after the death of our mother, Mrs. Frances Pontius.

LOWER COERCIVE SCHOOL AGE URGED

UNIVERSAL EDUCATION IS ALL WRONG IS CLAIMED

By Lawmaker Who Declares One of the Best Roads to Public Economy Was the Elimination of the Bunk That the State Should Give Every Boy and Girl a High School and University Education.

Resolutions favoring high entrance requirements to admit children to high schools and state universities, constitutional amendment so children can be employed at productive labor, and lowering of the compulsory education age from 18 to 16 years were submitted to the Ohio Tax association meeting Wednesday evening in the Deshler, Columbus.

Introduction of the resolution followed an address before the association in the afternoon by John B. Dempsey, Cleveland, chairman of the house taxation committee of the state legislature, in which he declared one of the best roads to public economy was the elimination of "the bunk that the state should give every boy and girl a high school and university education."

Resolutions favoring steps to prevent propagation of feeble-minded persons; favoring "common sense in school standards, administration and curriculum," and favoring the employment of convicts so state penal institutions may be self-supporting were also introduced.

Mr. Dempsey had contended in his address that much could likewise be saved the state if "sentimentalism" were abolished and business policies be substituted for present penal and welfare policies.

Resolutions were introduced for action favoring:—
Abolition of the personal property tax.

Resubmission of the debt limitation and limited classification amendments voted down at the polls in November.

Exemption from taxation of farm and garden machinery and tools, farm products, household property and furnishings.

Adoption of the constitutional amendment at the August primaries which would permit assessment of the whole cost of an improvement against the abutting property owners.

Reciprocity with other states on the inheritance tax.

WIFE THROWS ACID

Miss Elsa Granger, star of the "Pepper Box Revue," was probably disgraced for life at San Francisco when Mrs. Mabel Mayer lured her into the ladies' rest room of a hotel and threw a vial of acid in her face. Mrs. Mayer is the wife of Lee Mayer, head of a motion picture production company of Los Angeles. Miss Granger has been employed by Mr. Mayer and the act was caused by unwarranted jealousy, according to Miss Granger. The illustration shows the two women, Miss Granger below.

SEIZED CARLOAD OF ALCOHOL.

Cleveland—Federal agents seized a carload of alcohol labelled "vinegar" as it rolled into the Erie railroad yards here today. The cargo consisting of 40 drums of the liquor was consigned to a "fake" address. Fumes caused by a leak in one of the drums caused railroad detectives to investigate.

HAPPENINGS IN OUR STATE

Taken Direct From the Wires by Correspondents of the United States Press Association.

Columbus—Adoption of the pre-primary convention method of selecting candidates, insofar as the Republican party is concerned, is virtually assured, Republican State Chairman Fred W. Warner declared today after an executive session of the state central committee.

Altho the issue was to have been approved or rejected at the committee meeting late Wednesday, Warner said no action was taken because several members of the committee were absent. The committee, however did adopt measures to expedite payment of the last gubernatorial campaign debt, aggregating $69,000.

Columbus—Informed of reports that state dry agents were in Lorain preparing for a dry crusade, State Prohibition Commissioner McDonald insistently denied that the agents were acting under his orders.

"If any of my agents are in Lorain they are there without authority," McDonald insisted, denying receipt of letters of telegrams from the mayor and police chief of Lorain, asking that state agents be sent to that city.

Barberton—Clutching a meat cleaver in one hand John Vleck Sr., 55, was found shot to death in his store here today.

The body was found by two negro boys. A bullet had pierced Vleck's heart. A careful examination of the store failed to reveal anything missing leading police to discard the theory that Vleck was slain by bandits.

Police believe Vleck was shot by an enemy, perhaps while he menaced his assailant with the cleaver.

Columbus—Hearings before the public utilities commission in the statewide investigation of proposed increased rates of the Ohio Bell Telephone company stood adjourned today until February 25, to allow counsel for the state to examine company data.

Resumption of the hearings had been scheduled for today but W. S. McConaughy, special counsel for the state, told the commission he would prefer to postpone further cross examination to check data submitted by the company.

GREWSOME FIND TWO DEAD MEN FOUND IN AUTO

Strangled, Near Youngstown With Ropes Around Their Necks.

Youngstown, Feb. 11 (UP).—The bodies of two unidentified men, bound together with ropes and bearing marks of a brutal beating, were found in an automobile on the Hubbard road near Cedar Corners, a suburb today.

After an examination authorities expressed the belief that both had been hanged, cut down, placed in the automobile and taken to the spot where the machine was found.

Both bodies bore cuts and bruises, indicating they had been beaten with a heavy club. Marks, as tho each had been strangled to death with a rope, were found on the necks.

The men were between 25 and 30 years of age. Both were well dressed.

Mrs. John Anderson who lives a short distance from where the machine was abandoned told authorities she saw the car drive up and stop between 8 and 9 o'clock last night.

Two men alighted, she said. They boarded a second car which had been following and first and drove toward Youngstown.

The machine in which the bodies were left was a sedan. A lap robe was pulled over the bodies, giving the sedan the appearance of being empty.

One of the men is believed to be Ralph Russo, brother of Dominic Russo, who formerly operated a Youngstown Restaurant. Dominic viewed the bodies and said one was that of his brother. He pointed out a belt buckle bearing the initial, "R," found on the body.

The floor was filled with a goodly number of dancers, who seemed to enjoy the terpsichorean art to the full. The new athletic, rhythmic Charleston was the exhibition number and it was artistically done. Quite a number of visitors from other cities attended the dance. The affair was in charge of Lloyd Seward and Granville Parker.

CONFECTIONER KILLS BANDIT IN COLUMBUS

Unidentified Man Slain by Victim He Had Robbed a Short Time Before.

Ira C. Hunt, 63, 545 Bradley street Columbus, shot and killed a bandit, Wednesday afternoon, who a few minutes before had robbed him.

The bandit stepped into Mr. Hunt's confectionery at 514 Park street, and demanded Mr. Hunt to "stick 'em up," and his hands shot up in a northerly direction. While they were in this position, the hold-up cleaned Mr. Hunt's pockets of all his valuables. Money amounting to $45 was taken.

After searching his victim, the bandit ordered Mr. Hunt to a back room, where he commanded him to lie on the floor and the robber then went back to the store and began rifling the money drawer. As he did so Mr. Hunt slammed shut the door between the two rooms, obtained a shotgun that was behind the partition and the battle begun. The thief left the cash register and ran back to the door with a gun in his hands and as he opened the closed door dividing him from his victim, Mr. Hunt fired. The charge took effect directly between both eyes and the bandit fell to the floor dead. The hands of the robber clutched the gun in his death throes and it was there when the coronor arrived.

The robber was a man about thirty years of age. He is five feet, eight inches tall, is well built and has black hair. He was dressed in a blue cheviot suit, wore a light overcoat and a light hat, black oxfords and overshoes were on his feet. There were no marks on his clothing to identify him. On his left forearm is a tattooed rose and beneath was evidently the man's name, but this had been obliterated as a tattoo mark had blotted it out.

LADIES' SOCIETY.

The regular monthly meeting of the Ladies' society of Trinity Lutheran congregation, held in the social rooms of the church on Wednesday afternoon, February 10, was attended by 65 members. Troutman were elected delegates to the Woman's Missionary conference to be held in Columbus Thursday. During the social hour the members were entertained with vocal solos by Mrs. J. P. Moffitt and Mrs. George Himrod. A delicious lunch was served by the February committee.

More than sixty per cent of all commodities distributed today are sold on the monthly payment plan. From this figure it is evident that business has geared itself to the income basis of the consumer. The carrying charge on this vast turnover is reasonable, and yields a fair average return. But sacrificed payments and repossessed radios, phonographs, furniture, pianos and autos tell the grim story of contracts drawn entirely in favor of the seller. The safe, sure way to buy an article on a monthly payment basis is to borrow the money under the popular City Loan Plan where the contract is in the borrower's favor, and deal for cash. We know how to take care of cases of adversity too, which is not a bad thing to keep in mind when you are making promises about the future.

SNOWBOUND (1926)

Let poets rave about the delights of being snowbound in New England. The thousands of people who found their transportation cut off, last evening, by a driving snowstorm too severe for locomotives and electricities to overcome, were not in a mood to write poetry. Most of them did, however, maintain a high degree of good nature under what were indeed annoying and vexatious circumstances. Individuals who ordinarily fret over the most trifling inconveniences are apt to "grin and bear it" when something really serious comes along—like having to spend the night in a hotel corridor or to curl up and sleep on an office desk, as many were obliged to do when yesterday's storm cut them off from their homes.

The storm had one redeeming feature—it was not cold. Had the same quantity of snow fallen, with the same sweep of wind, at a temperature 10 to 20 degrees lower, the blizzard would have caused vastly more intense suffering and would have left a trail of tragedy.

Strenuous efforts were made and are still being made, by officials and laborers, to open every avenue of traffic. Those efforts deserve to be recognized and appreciated by everyone.

A Boston newspaper contained the above editorial regarding "Snowbound 1926" regarding the big snow storm which that city witnessed on Thursday of last week. This storm is recorded to be the most severe in the records of that city for the past 35 years. The wind reached a velocity of 37 miles an hour with the temperature ranging from 32 to 26 degrees above zero. At Winchester, a suburb of Boston, which is only about ten miles from the city, the snow was 18 inches deep on the level while the drifts were from three to four feet deep. All traffic was tied up, no locomotive, electric or elevated trains running out of the city. A large percentage of the business and professional men and women in Boston live in the suburbs and as a consequence every hotel in the city was taxed to the utmost. Many spending the night in their offices. The State House, jail and all public buildings were thrown open to the people and all were crowded. Mark V. Smith, 31, steel worker, Portsmouth, Ohio; Elva Deiber, city, Rural Route No. 1, Rev. Hiles.

Soul Can Be Measured

Out in the forest of Coye, in France, a distinguished mathematician worked in a lonely laboratory with delicate instruments measuring, year after year, and calculating to the millionth part of a centimeter. The other day he appeared at the Sorbonne and made an announcement that caused a tremendous sensation in France as if a bomb had been exploded. For Prof. Charles Henry declared that the human soul—that mysterious thing that is not a thing, which man has accepted only through faith—now can be measured. It is the first time, says Popular Science Monthly, that science ever has admitted tangible proof of the soul's existence.

Religion is right, declared Professor Henry. We never completely die. There is a certain electrical radiation or "biological vibration" that goes on and on. Set free by death, it seeks another envelope or body, because only by doing so can it establish its equilibrium.

Scientists today have ways of measuring the radiation of all substances. Yet after calculating the radiation in a body due to heat, that due to electromagnetic elements and that due to the attraction of the earth, they find there is still some unknown force that is none of these. It is this elusive force that Professor Henry identifies as the soul.

DEAL IN FUTURES

Young Wilkins, who was of very limited means, presented the minister, after the wedding ceremony, with a couple of frayed bank notes and some loose change, saying: "I'm sorry, parson, but this is all I've got."

Then, observing the faint look of disappointment which the poor parson was unable to restrain, he added hastily: "But, if we have any children, we will send them to your Sunday school."—Country Gentleman.

Writer's Remedy for That Jealous Feeling

Wives who are jealous of other women appear in moving pictures and stories on the first page, but jealousy of this kind doesn't trouble the average wife. There are three reasons why it doesn't trouble her: First, because her vanity tells her that she is attractive to all men and especially attractive to her husband and need not fear competition; second, because she has an unflattering opinion of her sex and doesn't believe that any member of it is qualified to win a man as intelligent as her husband; third, because familiarity has taught her that her husband is very ordinary and she smiles at the thought of his being a heart-smasher.

But if she is not jealous of other women she is jealous of her work, a writer in the Baltimore Sun comments. His work too frequently occupies his mind when she wishes to occupy it. She is made to feel that she is a secondary consideration, even though the work is done for her, and her vanity is hurt. She resents the fact of his work and feels neglected.

It is an unhappy situation, but it is easily remedied. She may find a work of her own, or at least a hobby. Once she has it, she will no longer depend upon her husband for entertainment. She will live much within herself and think her secret thoughts and answer his questions in an absent-minded way and be quite self-sufficient.

The remedy has disadvantages, however. You can't rob Peter to pay Paul without offending Peter.

Her husband, made to feel that he is no longer essential to her happiness, will feel cheated and abused. He will find a thousand reasons to condemn her new activity, but the whole cause of his displeasure is the fact that his vanity is hurt. He is jealous because he now is forced to play the second fiddle lately discarded by his wife.

What to do? Well, a collection of children makes an excellent hobby. A wife with five children doesn't worry about her husband's devotion to his work. She has an interest to occupy all of her waking thoughts. And if they cause her to give less time and attention to her husband, he is not made jealous, for the children are his and to care for them is to serve him.

Children are an expensive hobby, but any expense is justified if it affords a common interest and takes away the temptation to feel neglected and abused.

KEEPING WELL

AVOIDING HEART DISEASE

DR. FREDERICK R. GREEN
Editor of "HEALTH"

THE heart is the most important organ in the human body. Even among savage and primitive people it has always been recognized as the center and mainspring of life. Heart disease is perhaps more feared than any other human ailment, and justly so, since it is one of the most common.

There are today at least two million people in the United States suffering from some sort of heart affection. This means an average of one out of every fifty-five persons—men, women and children—in the country.

The popular idea of heart disease is that it generally affects persons in middle or later life; that it strikes without warning, and that it is impossible for one to avoid its dangers.

These ideas are all wrong. In probably one-third of all forms of heart disease the injury occurs in childhood, about fifteen out of every thousand school children having some definite heart disorder. Twice as many, or thirty out of every thousand persons between the ages of twenty and fifty, are more or less disabled by some form of heart affection. One-tenth of all the hospital beds in the country are occupied by patients with heart disease. The United States census for 1922 showed that one-fifth of all deaths of persons over forty years old were due to heart conditions.

What are the causes for this enormous number of diseased hearts? The answer can be given in a single word: Infection.

The heart is like any other organ in the body. So long as it is protected from poisons, either from inside or outside the body, it will go on working day and night, with absolute regularity, for many years. But infections or poisons carried from other parts of the body by the blood, coming in contact with the delicate lining of the heart, cause irritation, then inflammation, finally ulceration in the form of little open sores on the heart walls or valves, which cause a break in the smooth lining membrane. When these sores heal, the scars contract, pull the valves out of position and interfere with their work.

But what causes the infection? Sixty per cent of all cases are caused by rheumatism; 20 per cent by syphilis; and 15 per cent by local infection, such as diseased tonsils, abscesses, sinus infection in the nose, or general infections, such as scarlet fever.

Do you want to avoid heart disease? Then avoid all possible infections, and if you have bad tonsils, abscessed teeth, sinus infection, chronic appendicitis or an infected gall bladder, have the local infection taken care of at once. Don't wait. Tomorrow may be too late.

WASHINGTON SPECIALS

Washington, Feb. 9.—(UP).—President Coolidge today authorized a denial of reports that he had in any way directed Secretary of War Davis to take steps toward investigation of army air service propaganda. The president believes that such action is purely a war department matter.

President Coolidge's approval of Secretary of the Treasury Mellon's plan to establish separate bureaus of prohibition and customs, removing prohibition from the internal revenue bureau, was announced at the White House today. Mellon has conferred several times with Mr. Coolidge on his plan, which has just been introduced in Congress and the president approves all points of the proposal, it was said.

President Coolidge today sent to the Senate the following nominations: To be U. S. Marshals; Chester M. Leedom, district of South Dakota; John C. Orrick, district of Montana.

The Elliott Public Building bill, authorizing appropriation of $150,000,000 will be taken up by the House next Monday, the Republican steering committee decided today. The measure will be called up under suspension of rules which prevents the offering of the amendments. A two-thirds vote is necessary under this procedure for passage.

WHAT IS TO BE DONE?

"A very difficult question," the President calls the traffic casualties of the time. The figures that he cites—24,000 persons killed in a year upon the streets and highways of the country, and probably more than 500,000 injured. This means that over a period of the same length as our participation in the world war Americans are losing three-fourths as many lives on streets and roads as they lost to German bullets, and running up in addition a non-fatal casualty list thrice as great as they did abroad.

"The president has asked all the governors to appoint delegates to a national safety convention to assemble in March. While we know of no formula to meet the situation he has outlined the conference may write history by focusing public attention on the national aspects of a problem made up of a multitude of incidents at street corners and cross roads. Many communities are at work seeking and applying remedies.

The figures set forth in this article certainly ought to be a very convincing argument for

Danes Colonize Greenland
Two colonies of Danish farmers have gone to Greenland to make an effort to engage in farming on a profitable basis. The colonies will be at Lindeno and at Scoresby sound. Danish sovereignty has been recognized in Greenland by all powers but Norway, and last year Denmark and Norway made an agreement settling Norway's claim by giving it certain commercial rights for a period of 20 years. The agreement ended a controversy lasting for centuries that started because Norway claimed original explorations in Greenland.

x HARTMAN THEATER. x
x x x x x x x x

The joy of an engagement of mystery will soon be ours, for Thurston, the master magician, will be the attraction at the Hartman theater, Columbus, for the week commencing Monday, February 15, with Wednesday and Saturday matinees.

Many a tired business man or a busy mother will be routed out of their easy chairs and sent wandering off to the theater surrounded by a brood of youngsters determined to bring home either a pigeon or a rabbit as a present from Thurston, who is conceded to be the greatest exponent of the art of necromancy and the most plausible and delightful trickster of the entertainment world today.

Thurston has stood alone at the head of his chosen profession for numerous years and is now making his twentieth annual tour with his wonder show of the universe for such it is; because of the fact that the ideas for his wondrous illusions and deceptions are gathered from the remote corners of the world. These ideas have been brought to a state of perfection by the famous magician and will soon be offered for your delectation.

Thurston's new program is the most pretentious of any previously offered and contains thrills, laughter and mystery and will be presented by the largest company ever assembled to support a master magician and numbers thirty-five individuals, many of whom are pretty girls, and with gorgeous scenic array of extravagance and beauty, paraphernalia, animals, etc. that require three sixty-foot baggage cars greatly enhance the many and varied mysteries included in his program, as: "The Great East Indian Rope Trick," "Broadcasting a Woman," "The Phantom," "The Human Cannon Ball," "The Vanishing Horse and Rider," "Crushing a Woman," "The Mystic Follies," "The Vanishing Donkey," "The Human Pin Cushion," "The Elastic Lady," "The Phantom Princess" who floats out over the stage into the orchestra, then vanishing like a cloud in thin air, and one hundred other mysteries.

The time is passed when the measure of the value of a memorial is quantity. I hope the time has come when that measure is quality. I care not whether the material be marble or granite, its future will be measured by the character of the design. It is quality that has preserved for us the finest examples in painting and sculpture. It is quality that will stamp our imprint upon cemeteries of the future. Simplicity, correct lines and proportions and proper ornamentation are the real fundamentals. A design that is right, material that is lasting and perfect workmanship, spells success for the future of this industry and the beautification of the cemetery. GLORIFY THE HOME!

The American home is a source of our present progress and prosperity.

When the home loses its influence, the nation is doomed.

When we fail to glorify the home, we then take the downward path.

The home should be given its due reverence.

Within its sacred precincts we find the foundation of everything that leads to worth-while achievements.

Therefore, Let Us Exalt and Sanctify the Home!

It satisfies the deep-seated yearning that comes to every human soul. It brings peace, content and happiness.

God help those who have been denied the exalted privilege of home making!

They Are to Be Pitied! And often they are the victims of misguided enthusiasts who have failed to grasp the fundamental principles of the great truths of life.

To possess something that is worth more than life itself should indeed be considered an inspiring privilege.

And where is there a mother or father who will not admit that he loves any one or all of his children more than life itself?

When an emergency arises wherein a parent can save a loved one by sacrificing his own life, a decision is quickly made in favor of his progeny.

"Glorify God in Your Bodies" is a Divine, Biblical command!

But many really religious people fail to catch the proper vision of the bodily needs. Consequently they are unfortunately minus the vitality essential in the building of family life and sometimes they become obsessed with a wrong idea of the influence of bodily strength, vitality and beauty.

They are wont at times to criticize severely those who find inspiration in the sculptured outlines of bodily beauty.

Let us hope that this sacrilegious attitude towards the body that was made in God's image will soon disappear. This disrespect cast upon the flesh and blood house in which we live is one of the principle causes of limited families and the popularization of the frail physique which often brings sterility and at times physical, moral and spiritual disaster.

Nearly All Criminals are Defective Physically. There are but few exceptions.

We hear so much at this time about the menace of the crime wave.

But back of all the evil forces that are referred to as the cause of the crime wave is the fast growing disrespect for the American home.

Marriages are Decreasing; Divorces are Increasing.

A body that is glowing with health can never house the mind of a criminal.

And not until this great outstanding cause of criminality is fully recognized and properly remedied can we expect a satisfactory decrease in criminality.

The American home can be stabilized and perpetuated only by maintaining the vitality and vigor of our people.

To Glorify the Home We Must First Give Due Reverence to Our Glorious Bodies. We must exalt and dignify them to the highest pinnacle of human thought.

Then family life will be honored above everything.

Parents who fail in their family duties will then be properly stigmatized.—Bernarr McFadden.

CROCKEYJOY ADVENTURES

By BETTY BROWNE

(Copyright.)

A Crockey Halloween

RUTH wanted to see if she really could go into the front door of Crockeytown, all by herself. So she put the big red velvet-covered picture album on the library table and opened it to the enchanted picture of Crockey castle. At last, she tried to open it to the picture, but something was awry. The castle only looked like any other of those pictured in the book.

But listen! What was that? Ruth heard a faint little ghost of a tune. Or was it a tune? It sounded just as though a tea-kettle were bubbling on the fire, except that each little purring note arose as musical as the twang of a harp-string being thumbed.

Ruth closed the book and started on a search for the maker of this odd music. Then she saw her little toy cat of silver with the emerald eyes. And if you will believe me, she surely saw him wink at her and wiggle one ear. That was enough to show Ruth who had been making the music. It was the cat—"Purz," as the name on his collar read.

Now, as you may know, the kindly old Crockeyjoy had told Ruth that, excepting himself, Purz alone could aid her in entering Crockeyland. The old fellow's words had slipped her mind. But now she remembered. She picked up Purz and carried him across the room to the table. This time, when she opened the big picture book, she saw things as they should be. In the time it takes for a cat to arch his back and stretch, Ruth had shrunk to the size of Purz.

"Come on," said Purz, for he could speak just like a man. "Hurry. We have no time to spare, if we are to see the Crockey Folks celebrate Halloween."

Purz and Ruth went down the road that led to the Castle, as fast as they could scramble. When they reached the Castle moat, Purz gave the magic pass word. The drawbridge was let down for them with a rattle of iron chains. They skipped across it, through a tall doorway with steel bands at the sides of it, then they burst forth, all out of breath, right into the main hall of the Castle.

It was night in Crockeyland, and the whole place was lighted up with many-colored jack-o'-lanterns. At the start Ruth thought that these lanterns were being carried about. They were constantly moving back and forth among the crowd. But soon she saw that no one carried them. They moved by their own efforts. They were alive.

And then there were "tick-tocks" shaped like birds which climbed up to windows of their accord and rattled and ticked and scratched away, and seemed to enjoy themselves a lot. There were pumpkin heads with shining eyes which danced and frolicked, and grinned in glee. There were bent old witches with wrinkled faces and knotted hands, who rode about on great, long broomsticks. And when Purz gave the cat rally-call, you should have seen the troops of black cats; all sizes, all ages, which came trotting up to meet him.

Purz talked to the cats a while in cat-talk. Then he sent them all away again. And here is how he explained the strange goings-on to Ruth.

"In Crockeytown on Halloween, all the toys and playthings come to life. From witches and scarecrows, to pumpkin heads, they all can live and talk and play. A long, long time ago, such things also happened in the place we call the world. But some folks began to doubt that such things ever could occur. There were fights and troubles, and stoning parties, till the spirits decided that it was best to stay always in Crockeytown, and not to visit the earth except on very rare occasions. And that is what the witch-cats told me," said Purz, as they started for home.

They hurried through the gateway and across the drawbridge. Just as they reached the far side one of the chains of the drawbridge fell with a rattle, and the end of it struck Ruth sharply on the foot.

"Oh! oh, that hurt," she cried. Then she looked about her and saw that she was already back in the library at home. In her pocket rested the toy cat. At her feet was the picture album. It had fallen from her lap and struck against her foot in its fall. Ruth was tired and sleepy, so she knew that the best thing to do was to get to bed. Before she left the room she put Purz back in his corner and kissed him good-night. "Thank you, so much," she whispered as she left him. "We'll go on other adventures together." And Purz just purred, and purred, and purred, and then winked his left eye, and was quiet.

GOOD PROGRAM RENDERED BY BROTHERHOOD

Supper Furnished by Ladies of Trinity Lutheran Church
---Delightful Meeting.

One of the very largest crowds in the history of the church partook of a picnic supper furnished by the Ladies' society and engineered by Mrs. Ed Sensenbrenner. The affair was in honor of the Junior and Senior choir Sunday School orchestra, Sunday school officers and teachers. The tables fairly groaned with the weight of the many good things from the pantries of our many good housewives, chicken, chicken and more chicken, noodles, baked beans, escalloped oysters, johnnazette, homemade cake and ice cream.

The hall was decorated for Valentine day most artistically and each lady wore a white head band decorated with hearts.

The program for the occasion was furnished by members of the Brotherhood with Rev. G. J. Troutman, toastmaster. Whether it was the toastmaster, the speakers or the affair in general we can not say but we do know it was one of the most enthusiastic meetings for many a day.

The program was as follows:
"Music in the Church" Harry Heffner
"Hats Off to Our Sunday School Teachers" Elmer Wolf
"Compliments to the Choir"
..... J. D. Hummel
"The Compensation of a Church Worker" John Goeller Jr.
"What's in a Name?"
..... George Troutman
"My 23 Years in the War Department (choir)" E. C. Ebert

CONTRIBUTE TO CAMPAIGN EXCHEQUER

Money Found on Fair Manager's Desk and Returned by Governor Donahey.

Coimbus, Feb. 10, (UP) —The state auditor's office is investigating alleged irregularities in connection with the sale of concessions at the last state fair, it became known today.

State Auditor Tracy launched the inquiry after State Director of Agriculture Truax submitted a voucher for $800 to repay the Gooding shows for alleged breach of contract.

Tracy is holding up the voucher, pending completion of the inquiry.

Tracy called in Attorney General Crabbe who with Deputy State Auditor Harry D. Silver obtained sworn statements from C. W. Cracraft, Cincinnati, general agent for the Greater Sheasley shows.

Cracraft was awarded a contract for operating riding devices at the fair after the Gooding contract, which was supposed to have been exclusive was awarded, Tracy claims.

Cracraft said he sent $200 to the fair grounds as a campaign contribution after he had been awarded the concession for $1200, according to Tracy. Cracraft understood the money was for campaign purposes, but no campaigns were being conducted at the time, he said.

The money was placed on the desk of G. F. Lewis, state fair manager. Tracy says Cracraft told him. Lewis sealed the money in an envelope and later turned it over to Governor Donahey.

The governor conducted an investigation, Cracraft said, and himself returned the money, telling Cracraft "that was not the proper way to make campaign contribution."

Lewis said he believed from what Cracraft told him that Truax had made some arrangements with Cracraft in Chicago for the concession.

The state fair board was scheduled to meet Thursday. The board only has advisory powers and it was expected that it will not attempt to become a party to the probe.

Tracy indicated he would conduct an investigation of every concession awarded, numbering 90.

Lewis declined to discuss the case as did Truax. Both probably will appear before Tracy and Crabbe Monday when the inquiry is scheduled for resumption.

Cracraft's statement involved State Director of Agriculture Truax who previously had awarded the concession to the Gooding shows. It was when Truax sent thru a voucher for the payment of $800 to the Gooding interests for breach of contract, that the alleged contribution was disclosed coincident with the revelation that the concession had been awarded to the Cracraft interests.

New Source Foreseen for News-Print Supply

Madison, Wis.—A source that will give a plentiful supply of news-print paper at lower cost has been found by the forest products laboratory of the University of Wisconsin.

Successful experiments conducted by the laboratory have resulted in the production of paper from eucalyptus wood grown in Sao Paulo, Brazil. A small roll run through the press of a newspaper here showed favorable printing qualities and ample strength for use in high-speed presses, experimenters said.

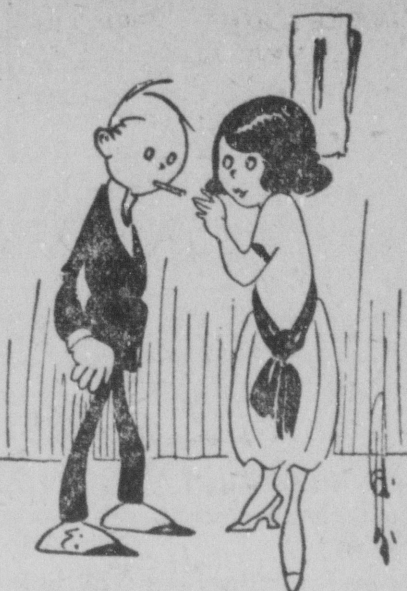

Dr. Edmundo Navarro de Andrade, who observed the experiment, said he believed that the new product would bring paper manufacture into prominence in Brazil. The paper can be produced at about half the cost of the present imported news print, the laboratory estimated.

The eucalyptus can be grown in California, New Mexico, Arizona and Florida, where the climate is such that the tree would probably reach pulp wood size in less than ten years, giving what research workers believe will be a perpetual supply of paper to fill the shortage caused by depletion of spruce.

Her Good Work Unseen

After 25 years in theatrical obscurity, Madame Lempereur has reached the top of her profession in Paris, but the public still will see nothing of her. Madame Lempereur is a theater prompter. She has been appointed to officiate at the Comedie Francaise, France's leading state theater, otherwise known as the House of Moliere. "A good prompter is as rare as an actor with talent," said Andre Antoine, manager of the Odeon, second state theater, where Madame Lempereur previously served. "Many's the time my old comrade has pulled me out of a hole. I was only free from anxiety when she was in the prompter's box."

BURBANK PRESENTS SEVEN NEW PLANTS TO THE WORLD

Noted Major Creations and Improvements Result of Year's Work by Famous Naturalist.

Santa Rosa, Cal.—With the completion of one of the busiest years in his half century of work in the laboratory of nature, Luther Burbank presented to the world as a New Year gift a beautiful group of new flowers and plants.

The plant wizard announced that during the year just closed he had perfected seven major creations and improvements. Today he sent to all parts of the world seeds which will bear these new creations.

After 23 years of experimentation Mr. Burbank has created a new camassia, a striking blue flower. While the camassia is not widely known, the new product excels all others in its beauty and ability to multiply.

From his rainbow corn Burbank has produced the rainbow teosinte, a marvelous plant that grows eight feet tall and bears from 8 to 14 ears to each stalk.

Third is a new giant cactus flowering zinnia, a truly giant plant developed from a more familiar flower.

Others are a new hybrid flower, a new species of the torch lily, which will bloom profusely in cold climates; a new and improved strain of the popular Shasta daisy, much larger and more colorful than the present Shasta; a new strain of fluffy giant asters, and the perfection of eight newly named gladioluses.

The noted naturalist begins the new year in good health, and is looking forward to one of accomplishment.

"I can say that I am satisfied with my year's work," he told visitors at his experimental gardens, "for I must be satisfied. The year is done, and it has been one of my busiest. I have worked and enjoyed every day of it. But I will go on with the new year."

Old English DancesAre Being Revived

London.—There has been a sudden country-wide revival of the old English country dances, and a great all-England folk dance festival is ushering in the new year in the grand hall of London university, in South Kensington.

The revival is bringing the morris dance and the sword dance into their own again, says a report by the English Folk Dance society, which asserts these dances are being taken up with enthusiasm by tens of thousands of young people throughout England. The society is compelled to refuse hundreds of applications from would-be learners because of its inability to secure enough ballroom space.

Women are taking up sword dancing enthusiastically, many with the purpose of teaching it to boy scouts, girl guides and members of similar organizations.

Scottish reels are also regaining favor, mainly because of the partiality of the duchess of York for them, although the duchess herself will not be seen in the ballroom for the next few months because of the approach of an interesting family event.

Dig Up Skeleton 2,000 Years Old in Arizona

Phoenix, Ariz.—The skeleton of a man, believed to have been a member of the race said by some archeologists to have inhabited this section of Arizona 2,000 years ago, was unearthed near the eastern city limits by a party of excavators working under the direction of the American Museum of Natural History.

Measurements of the skeleton indicate the man was about 5 feet 8 inches tall. Both Erick Smith, in charge of the excavating work, and Dr. O. A. Turney, Phoenix archeologist, said the man undoubtedly was a member of the race that was known as the "canal builders," who are believed to have constructed the first irrigation system in the Salt river valley. Traces of these canal systems still remain.

Belief was expressed that there were two rooms beneath the chamber in which the skeleton was found. Doctor Turney explained that it was the custom of this race to lay their dead in the floor of a room, cover it with earth, build a new floor and continue to live in the same dwelling.

Gold-Filled Elephant Tusk Found in Mining Claim

Seattle, Wash.—An authentic fossil tusk of the woolly elephant of the glacial or postglacial period, with gold fillings like a modern tooth, has been presented to the museum of the University of Washington by Edward Squires, who discovered it on a mining claim on Dominion creek, 40 miles from Dawson, Yukon territory.

The tusk is ten feet long and weighs 250 pounds. The theory of Nathan Kresge, museum caretaker and former Alaskan, is that the relic was there when tons of earth with pay streak settled down, so that gold nuggets were forced into the cracks of the tusk, giving the effect of modern gold tooth fillings.

It Worked

Louisville, Ky.—The burglar alarm on Mrs. Jane Lindenberg's shop works and she is satisfied she is getting her money's worth. A squad of policemen, arriving in answer to an alarm from Mrs. Lindenberg's shop, were told she "wanted to see if she was getting service."

GEN. PERSHING RE-
TURNED TO STATES

Key West, Fla., Feb. 9.—General John J. Pershing, high plebiscite commissioner in the Tacna-Arica dispute, arrived here today from South America looking wan and pale and announced he will proceed to Washington by train tonight and go direct to Walter Reed Hospital for treatment.

General Pershing's teeth have become infected and have caused general ill health, it was explained.

His condition, however, is not considered serious.

An official welcoming ceremony was accorded the General upon his arrival on board the cruiser Denver.

Market for Jewels
Prior to the World war Russia, Germany and India outdistanced all other countries in the acquisition of gems, but in the last few years the United States has become the most bejeweled country in the world. That with the economic slump following the war, revolutions, high taxes and expensive food and other necessities, the wealthiest people abroad have been obliged to sell their most prized possessions. Most of these jewels have come to America, for taxation places precious stones beyond the reach of British middle-class families.

INDIANS IN A. E. F.

From Records It Has Been Found
12,000 Red Men Were In Expeditionary Force.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 9.—After carefully checking the records, it has been ascertained that there were 12,000 American Indians in the American Expeditionary Forces during the World War. They made excellent soldiers and when they returned, they immediately went back to their reservations.

Dutch Wealth in Colonies
Although Holland, living above her means, is unable to afford a big navy, yet the defense of her colonies is a question of supreme gravity. The importance to Holland of its overseas possessions was emphasized recently in a speech by Professor Treub, former finance minister and chairman of the Employers' council of the Dutch East Indies. In the Dutch archipelago, whose area is 5 times greater than that of the mother country, is a population of 50,000,000. There is invested there $1,200,000,000, three-quarters of which is Dutch and one-quarter foreign capital, on which the annual yield is about $180,000,000. About $100,000,000 is paid in dividends and royalties. Twenty per cent of these dividends accrues to the Dutch treasury. Were Holland to lose East India her industrial and commercial life would be mortally hit.

MOVIE STARS
TWICE MARRIED

Hollywood, Calif., Feb. 9.—(UP.)—Alma Rubens and Ricardo Cortez were much married today.

The stars motored to Riverside and were re-wed, the second ceremony within ten days.

Through a technical mixup Cortez and Miss Rubens were married a week before her divorce from Dr. Daniel Carson Goodman had been effective.

The same justice who "married" the film couple on January 30, re-enacted the nuptials.

Wanted Full Praise
Here is a story that is going the rounds in New York city: The chef to M. Ignace Paderewski receives almost as much publicity en tour as does the pianist; partly because he is a good chef, and partly because he insists that the world be made aware of his genius. To this his master assents. Anything for peace and shelter from the run of table food of the railroad diner. More, M. Paderewski makes a point of complimenting his chef frequently. "Tell the chef," he said, lately, upon conclusion of a meal, "that the fish was marvelous, the roast superb, and the ice cream unsurpassable." The waiter relayed the message and returned, duly, with the answer. "The chef says," he told M. Paderewski, "that the soup was excellent, too."

ESKIMO AND INDIAN GIVE RADIO FANTASTIC THRILLS

SIMEON OLIVER, an Eskimo from Unalakleet, Alaska, an accomplished pianist, and KATUS TECUMSEH, a noted Indian tenor, are exclusive artists over WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation station, Chicago. These two artists play and sing opera, popular music and the music typical of the Eskimo and Indian tribes. The Eskimo has played the piano since he was four years old. He taught himself, but while broadcasting here he has been studying with a noted musician. He received his education in the government school in Alaska. Tecumseh has a remarkably high tenor voice. His first name, Katus, means "Coyote" and even when he was with the cowboys, cattle roundups he gave evidence of being a singer. It was a natural voice then, but he has, through practice, become a polished singer. He has appeared in grand opera, having appeared at the Metropolitan as well as on radio programs in the East with John McCormack.

WLS NEW SUPERPOWER STATION NOW ON THE AIR

NO PHASE of science which radio wizards have been able to discover has been left untouched in building the new super-power station for WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation station, Chicago, near Crete, Ill., on the Dixie Highway. The transmitter is 5,000-watt capacity, with tubes of 10,000-watt units. A specially designed frequency amplifier assures the holding of the same wave length under all conditions and the use of the capacity reduces the possibility of interference with other stations, according to Curtis D. Peck, engineer in charge. The station is located on a two-and-one-half-acre plot. The site is landscaped and beautified with hedges and creeping bent grass lawns. Fifteen miles of ground wire were plowed in rows under the lawn as a farmer plants his potatoes. The building contains an extra large operating room, office, reception room for visitors, generator and battery rooms and switch closets. The most up-to-date construction has been employed throughout. An elaborate hot-water system has been installed to prevent freezing of the water used in cooling tubes. The towers are 200 feet high and 40 feet at the base. The wave length remains the same—345 meters. The inaugural program was broadcast October 31. A new "radio art" studio in the Hotel Sherman, Chicago, was opened to the radio public at the same time.

USES PITCHFORK AS FIDDLE FOR RADIO FARM CONCERTS

ARLEN SIME of Readstown, Wis., gets real music out of a pitchfork. This he demonstrates to the radio audiences over WLS, the Sears-Roebuck Agricultural Foundation. Mr. Sime achieved a reputation playing his "Pitchfork Violin" for country dances, farmers' meetings and community assemblages in Wisconsin, so he was induced to come to Chicago and give concerts to the WLS farm listeners with this unique musical instrument, which he made himself from an ordinary three-tine fork. Around the middle of the handle he built a box 10 by 13 inches. The back is made of birch and the top and sides of fir. In the end of the fork handle is a slot for a tuning key. He uses a violin bridge and the one string of the instrument is a steel "B" of a guitar. It is played with a regular violin bow. The instrument produces different tones by sliding a piece of wood up and down the string. The steel tines of the pitchfork give a great deal of tone quality and volume.

IN MEMORIAM

Editor Union Herald—Mrs. Frances C. Pontius was born in Washington township, Pickaway county, Ohio, on the 23rd day of February, 1851, and departed this life on Thursday evening February 4th, at six o'clock at her home in Circleville, at the age of 75 years, 11 months and 12 days.

She was a daughter of David and Mary Morris Helvering, who have passed to the great beyond. She was united in holy matrimony to Louis H. Pontius on the 23rd day of September, 1869, and who died March 12, 1917. To this union four children were born, one of whom died in infancy.

The surviving children are: Florence, wife of R. E. Betz, of Washington township; Clifford D. Pontius and Turney L. Pontius, of Pickaway township. She also leaves seven grandchildren: Ralph, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. E. Betz; Helen and Eleanor, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Pontius, and Harold Wilbur, Irene and Marvene, children of Mr. and Mrs. Turney Pontius.

She also leaves one sister, Mrs. T. R. Bell, of Columbiana, Ohio, and two brothers, Elmer and Charles Helvering, of Washington township, and a host of relatives and friends to mourn their loss which can never be restored in this world; but their loss is her eternal gain.

She bore her long suffering with patience. Mrs. Pontius was a loving mother, sister and a friend to all who knew her. It can be said that she was always ready to assist anyone in need and she possessed noble traits of character. She will be missed by her children and friends and her place in the home will be forever vacant.

She was a member of the Lutheran church of this city.

Card of Thanks.

We desire to thank all our friends and neighbors for their many kindnesses during the illness and after the death of our mother, Mrs. Frances Pontius.
